Senior Class History

By IDABELLE LACKEY

As our school days come to a close, my thoughts drift back to the day when, the Seniors of '28, started on what seemed to us a long journey.

Oh yes! How well I remember, a group of smiling and half puzzled pupils, being ushered into "kindergarten" under the guiding hand of "Miss Ella."

The time passed quickly, and one promotion followed another, until we entered 8 A with Miss Wheatley as our faithful and helpful instructress. Our class had the distinction of being the first one in the new High School Building.

The following September a group of "Green" but not dumb "Freshies" entered the doors of M. H. S. We did not receive any encouragement from the haughty Seniors, but we kept our heads high, with the idea in mind that soon we too would be—"Seniors."

The next year found (all those who had survived the battles of a Freshie) entering as Sophomores. This year was spent in study (?) and various activities.

As Juniors, we participated in music, debate and athletics, edited the "Medinian," and held the Junior and Senior Banquet.

The following September found us—"Seniors." It was with great anticipation that we began our Senior year. We organized our class, choosing the following officers: President—Charles Smith; Vice-President—Carrol McClure; Secretary—Ellen Nichols; Treasurer—Idabelle Lackey.

We have found time for numerous parties and other Senior functions. We also presented a class play, "Daddy Long-Legs."

At a recent class meeting, we, the Seniors, made the following arrangements for our "Commencement." Motto: "Deeds not Words"; colors, Orchid and Nile Green; flower, The Red Rose.

As the time approaches for us to leave, it is a half glad and sorrowful adieu that we extend to the faculty and lower classmates.

President's Address

By Charles Smith

For centuries man has thought and talked about ending war. In the last hundred and twenty-five years he has not only talked but acted. In this action the United States has been a leader. During its history the United States government has resorted to arbitration in a large number of cases with twenty-five different nations, and has negotiated the so-called Bryan treaties with thirty nations.

There are three equally important factors in the triangle of world peace. One might be labelled "Arbitration" or outlawry of war and the enthronement of peaceful, orderly methods of settling disputes; another might be called security—by which is meant a feeling of safety, a feeling of confidence in the goodwill and peaceful intentions of neighbor nations; the third might be named limitation of armaments, a phrase which loosely explains itself, though nations differ in interpreting it. Each of the three factors is dependent upon the others. All three must be developed in proportion to complete the triangle.

At present war is an institution—well established, respectable, legal. The world is organized for war, not for peace. The right to wage war on behalf of its honor or vital interests is regarded as one of the most sacred privileges and duties of a nation. International law does not question the right. So all pervasive is war as an institution that permanent peace will be an idle dream until the legal status of war is removed and it is branded as a crime under the laws of nations. So the delegalizing of war is one step toward international peace. This can be and is at present being achieved through general international treaties or by a series of treaties between two or more parties whenevr the nations have the will to do so. The first grave weakness of the outlawry program, however, is found in its undue reliance upon judicial agencies, and its comparative neglect of political action. Agencies, such as the League of Nations and the international Labor office, are just as urgently needed as are judicial bodies, and for a long time to come, will be called upon to deal with the most menacing international controversies. The Supreme Court of the United States could not have functioned effectively without the legislative and executive branches of government. Thus the delegalizing of war will not necessarily insure world peace but is only a step in that direction.

The question of disarmament has been continually discussed since the war. In 1921, a five power naval limitation conference was held at Washington at the request of President Harding. Five years later a similar conference was held at Geneva, to which all European countries sent delegates. Just recently President Coolidge sent invitations for another conference to be held at any convenient place and as soon as possible. The Washington Conference of 1921 was able to do little more than to secure agreements regarding capital ships at the 5-5-3 ratio as regards the United States, Great Britain and Japan, leaving for discussion at Geneva the ratios of France and Italy. It is not something to be acquired in a day but persistent effort will gain in the end.

It was following the World War that the need for security between nations became evident if peace was to reign. The horrors of the war determined in the minds of the people that peace should be their aim. Since the war, the League of Nations has been organized; the Locarno Treaties have been signed and several disarmament conferences have been called. Thus the idea of security has become one of the stepping stones to international peace.

While I have touched upon the three forward movements that at present tend toward the establishment of international peace, yet, the thinking individual must recognize that they in their broadest interpretation, can be designated as nothing more than tendencies toward peace. As yet, permanent peace is an ideal of the remote future toward which both individuals and nations may, through the coming generations, strive; and which they may vision as an ideal to be more or less perfectly realized in the long distant future. But, permanent peace as an institution among, not only individuals, but nations as well, must be built upon elements of character which must be instilled into the heart and mind of practically every individual of every nation before it can be realized. Thus, if the United States and other nations desire to bring about a condition of permanent peace and be leaders in this sort of a movement, it must build into the lives of its people a spirit of tolerance, good-will and unselfishness that will enable them to meet not only as individuals, but as nations in a friendly, amicable and open minded manner without petty hatreds and with a recognition on their part that the spirit of brotherliness and good-will is more essential to prosperity and happiness than anger, hatred, bigotry and selfishness. The realization of such a program is truly idealistic, but with the accomplishment of such material wonders as we have recently seen come to pass where the people of this continent may talk to each other and may even visit with each other in a few hours time, who knows but that this breaking down of distance barriers may be a long step forward in the occomplishment of international peace.

Thus we enter world affairs in one of the most progressive ages of History. We must, therefore, consider our future carefully. May we fully appreciate the possibilities which are laid before us and may we accept the challenge to maintain the high standards set by our forefathers in national and international affairs.

Valedictory

By Ellen Nichols

Friends and Classmates:

We cannot but have some few regrets as we gather here this evening to bid farewell to our high school days. A part of our lives is forever gone with the sun that set today. Wish as we may, we cannot retrace the steps we have now taken. As Omar said in Persia many years ago:

"The moving finger writes, and having writ
Moves on; nor all our piety nor wit
Shall lure it back to cancel half a line,
Nor all our tears blot out a word of it."

But after all, this is not a time for vain regrets for the things we have left undone. It is rather a time to take stock of the things we have accomplished during our four years here. It is a time to cast up our accounts and to note the balance we have left.

Of course, it is to be hoped, we have gained some little knowledge of books. Books contain a vast treasure of wisdom because in them are collected the great thoughts of great men down through the ages. They give us, at once, in a compact form, the benefit of the united experience of hundreds of men through hundreds of years. The study of their successes and failures and of the knowledge they acquired may serve to set our starting-point a little farther along the road.

Perhaps even more important than book-knowledge, although it is not listed in the school curriculum, is the experience we have accumulated for ourselves. Knowledge handed down and learned by rote is all very well, but it will never be so real, so vital to us as that, that we slowly sift out of the bumps and knocks life gives us.

Education—a happy combination of these two—is important to a full and complete life. It gives us a wider window on life and teaches us tolerance—an appreciation of the other fellow and his work although they both may be as far as the poles from us and the ideal for which we are striving. It will be one small step towards progress when men learn to really know their fellowmen and the good that is inevitably in them.

Our contacts during high school days will always remain one of the most precious memories among our souvenirs. We owe a debt of gratitude that will never be paid to our teachers who have borne with us thus long; and who, along with lessons in the intricacies of English, Latin and Math, have taught us invaluable lessons in the art of living. If they have been often discouraged by our seeming insensibility to good counsel, may they find consolation in remembering that practice is always more potent than preaching.

The friendships that we have formed here will not be soon forgotten nor will their influence soon vanish from our lives. It has been said that a man may be known by the company he keeps—merely another way of saying to what an extent our lives are molded by those with whom we are intimate. It is probable that never again will we assemble with our roll complete, but that need bring no great regret. The best part of a friendship in after years may not be to meet that friend again—for changes are inevitable and bring subtle disappointment—but to live over again in thought the days that we spent together in old M. H. S.

As we pass out of these portals tonight the world lies before us. A band of modern Don Quixotes, we are ready to set out to conquer the earth. For some of us there may be more years of preparation; others of us go directly into life. But for none of us have our days of learning ended, for as we live we will learn. And for all of us the plunge will come sooner or later.

There are many fields that lie open. Now, no one is limited in the choice of what he will do. We will find, too, as we work, that it is only at the foot of the ladder that the throng is; it is never crowded at the top.

Science, with its mysteries of mechanics and power that have made possible the automobile and the airplane and will make possible in the future greater things, beckons to the alert and open-minded.

The professions, medicine, dentistry, law, call for boys and girls—the raw materials of men and women—who are eager to make men a healthier and happier race.

Teaching, with its chance at young minds in the plastic stage, holds an opportunity for those who would try their hand at reforming what is bad by means of cultivating only the good, at a time when impressions are lasting.

There is a need, too, for honest men in business and commerce. Homes call for educated women who are trained to do their job wisely and well.

After we have learned to govern ourselves a wider field will open for us in helping our fellowmen. In these times of world agitation and unrest there is a great need for honest men in politics.

Let us hope, too, that from our ranks may be recruited an artist or musician, for the world has want of the beautiful on its way.

But whatever the goal we may finally reach, however different from that we now plan, may we always remember that it is not so much the end that we reach as it is the spirit with which we pursue that end, that counts. "Not failure but low aim is crime."

"Life is a mirror of king and slave,
It is just what we are and do,
So then, give to the world the best you have
And the best will come back to you."

Class Prophecy

By Robert F. Flammer

"Well, old classmate," I remarked to my friend, as we sat lazily in front of the fire in his London home, "It was just twenty years ago tonight that we were graduated from Dear Old Medina High School."

"Yes," he replied, "I was just thinking of that, myself, and how I would like to see what each one of our classmates is occupied in doing now."

Being busy with our own thoughts, neither one of us spoke for some time. This period of recalling fond memories was broken by a soft feminine voice. "Cal, dear," came the voice from the hall, "May I come in?"

"Certainly, Onnolee, come right on in." The door opened and Mrs. Edwards came into the room followed by a servant carrying a large square box.

"Cal," she said, "I heard you talking about Medina, and our schoolmates and knowing that there was a Hindu in the neighborhood that knew the ways of magic, I sought him out and rented his magic globe for the evening. By looking into this globe, we will be able to see what every one of the Class of '28 is doing tonight."

"Onnolee, that is an excellent idea. This will be a pleasant evening for the three of us."

After taking the globe from the box and placing it upon the table, we seated ourselves around it. Then Onnolee spoke the few magic words that the Hindu had taught her and we proceeded on our adventure.

The first place that appeared on the globe was Washington, D. C., the White House came into view and on the steps was President Charles Smith, entertaining his sister, Pauline, and her husband, the Prince of Wales. As we followed them into the house, our eyes were greeted by Ellen Nichols, President of the World's Literary Society, and wife of the famous senator, Mr. Snyder. As the group was talking, the President's private secretary, Mabel Rickert, brought him a message from the office. With this the group disappeared into the mansion. From the White House the scene shifted to the William's Hotel, the world's largest. In the manager's office we saw Horace Williams, the owner, talking to Paul Rodgers, United States' Ambassador to France.

Just then a thought struck me. "Wait," I said, "Of course, you remember Stanbery Nichols. He is now a second Thomas Edison—I saw him at my club this afternoon and he might be able to hook some kind of a device on the globe so that we might hear what our classmates are saying."

I went to the phone and luckily found him in. I told him what we wanted and he assured me that he could easily arrange it. He was at the house in about fifteen minutes and in a short time he had the globe talking. The four of us then resumed our tour.

From the manager's office the picture went to the lobby of the hotel. Much to our surprise we found three famous specialists talking over their experience.

"Thelma," said one, "Do you remember how you and Alda used to cut periods to work in the kitchen?" "Listen, here, Pauline Hopkins," replied Thelma, "You cut just as many periods as we did."

We were just getting interested in the conversation when the globe thought it was getting too warm and changed its view to New York. Here we saw several of our musical classmates; Howard King, Metropolitan Opera Star and world's greatest tenor, was making his debut in Carnegie Hall.

Ev England, leader of the famous Medinians, was playing at the Ritzmore Cafe. I am sorry to say that none of the original orchestra is left but the pianist. Wayne Kendall was next leading the New York Symphony, in its last performance of the successful year. The globe permitted us to hear each one of these friends long enough to convince us that they had succeeded.

The globe then journeyed to a little studio on Fifth Avenue. In this studio we saw Bluebell Ruse, painting a picture of John Greif, the world's best model.

The scene next changed to the stage. To our surprise we saw Ed Yost the last word in Shakespearian acting, playing the difficult part of Hamlet. In the audience we ran across Idabelle Lackey and Earl Lance who made the screen famous in their picture, "Just Between You and Me."

From the drama the scene shifted to the vaudeville stage. Here we saw Paul Borger and Bob Cain fulfilling the ambition of their high school days by carrying out the work of the original Two Black Crows. In the next act we were surprised to see Fred Snyder in a clever monologue that kept the house roaring most of the time.

The globe blurred; it spoke before it cleared. We heard a laugh that we so often hear in Assembly on Friday morning—we knew it to be that of Tom Munson. As the globe cleared we saw people flocking around the famous 18.1 baulk line billard player. He had just defeated the former champion, Willie Kern. We learned later that Willie was a noted designer of women's hats and gowns. In the crowd was Rufus Kindig, great basketball star; Norman Barry, manager of the Cleveland Indians; Fredda Musch, who holds the world's record in long distance swimming; Helen Cole, the fastest on the basketball floor; William Miller, Olympic Star; Russell Beck, world known polo player.

We grew weary of sitting in such a tense position and got up to relax. As we were sitting in such a weary state the evening paper was brought in. We were surprised to see the headlines:

LINDBERGH'S WIFE, THE FORMER DOROTHY KENNEDY,
MAKES FIRST NON-STOP FLIGHT AROUND THE WORLD

Reading on through the story, we found that Irene Kraver had sponsored the flight. Turning to the picture section we saw a photograph of Rev. Wilbur Frank and wife.

His wife, whose maiden name was Anna Margaret Kirk, had struck oil on her land near Chippewa Lake Park. This made us very happy for Cal now owned half of Chippewa Lake Park. He had purchased it for a remembrance of high school picnics.

A notice in the paper disclosed the fact that Fred Herrington was owner of all newspapers in the United States. We turned over to the editorial sheet and read a farce on Congress by Tom Haight, the second Will Rodgers. Next to Tom's column was a poem written by Marguerite Ewing on "Old High School Days." Below this was an editorial on "Women in Politics," written by Henrietta Ruder and Eleanor Benjamin. This paper showed that Medina folks were becoming famous.

Finding nothing more in the paper we returned to the globe. The first thing we saw was, indeed, a treat to our eyes. Ruth Smith was doing some very graceful and difficult dancing. We were sorry that the globe changed scenes so quickly but it was growing late and we must continue our tour.

We were wishing something different and our wishes came true. The scene took place in a dense jungle. We were totally, dumfounded when we saw Wayne Root standing with one foot on the neck of a huge lion preaching to some natives. "Well," I remarked, "We're going to see our friends in the foreign countries now." "Yes," answered Cal, "It seems—look! there is Edwin Kelser, exploring somewhere up north—and who is with him?" "Why that is Julian Bigelow," said Onnolee. "By jiggers if it isn't," replied Cal, "who'd ever thought that of him!"

The globe then took us back to the United States. Here we were greeted by some of the faculty at Harvard. Coach Bernhardt whom the boys called "Dad" had his famous football team fighting hard on the gridiron. Ruth Fuller, professor of Math, Avis Reed, Debate Coach, Elsie Hoddinott, Professor of French, Gerald Black, Prof. of Physics, and Edwin Abbott, Pres. of Harvard, were all rooting for their team.

Marjory Beck, Florence McMillan and Catherine LeDuke, the world's famous detectives, ran into the picture as they were hunting a clue to solve the mystery of the kidnapping of Nelson Foskett, the greatest of all wood workers. After the detectives had run out of the picture, who was to appear but Ted Lutz, owner of a large chain of Drug Stores. Harvey Carter, his old jockey friend, owner of a large stable of famous race horses, was standing beside him.

The next thing we knew we found ourselves gazing upon the form of His Honor—Judge McClure, of the Supreme Court. As the Judge was pronouncing the sentence on some poor individual the globe suddenly became so bright that it nearly blinded us; and as the light dimmed we could see plainer and plainer the words we regretted to see—The End.

Class Will

Class Will

FRED HERRINGTON

We, the class of 1928, Medina High School, Medina, Ohio, being of fairly sound mind and memories and nearly in full possession of our mental faculties, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament.

FIRST: We do give and bequeath to the faculty our marvelous talents to better fit them for the prodigous task of completing the education of the Senior class of 1929.

SECOND: To the Freshman of 1929 we will the great privilege of dusting off the desks in the Senior room. They must not merely sweep the dust to the floor but must catch it on small ivory trays and deposit in the top drawer of Mr. Gray's desk.

THIRD: To the Sophomores, we do impart our attitude of strict attention which we have shown to the teachers all through our high school life.

FOURTH: Such Juniors as think themselves the owners of suitable beauty and dignity to be occupants of the Senior Home Room may do so providing they first learn the act of stepping into a room as quietly as Mr. Conkle.

Horace Williams wills $1800.00 to Mr. Bauer to buy a new spelling trophy. Horace learned that the average student earns $9.00 per day. Thus he finds that in his four years of High School he has accumulated this princely sum to present to the High School as a token of appreciation for being given a diploma.

We will Helen Cole's art of whistling to Mr. Gray and Mr. Taggart to take the place of certain remarks made to the world in general when their car doesn't start.

"Bill" Miller's ability to "juggle" a Ford is lovingly presented to Sara Denton, with the intention of making the pedestrian safer.

Mabel Rickert's day dreams we wish to give to Priscilla Barna.

We regret having to part with Carroll McClure's marvelous dexterity in reading a College Humor behind a Current Events Magazine but we hereby give and bequeath this talent to Corwin Hoff.

"Ev" England's love for History of all kinds we hand over to Norman Tubbs.

Elsie Hoddinott's love for work is presented to Mary Branch with the one hope that this trait will be strong enough to do some good.

Fredda Musch's vanity case (all nights reserved) we do hereby will to Bernardine Weaver.

Thomas Munson's quiet manly nature which so endears him to the ladies, we will will to Harry Franks, under one condition that in continuing Tom's work, he at no time will neglect his studies.

We bequeath Marguerite Ewing's boisterious ways to Leonard Ruse, "for the good of the cause."

Edward Yost leaves his bookkeeping set to serve as an example to future students of this art.

Norman Barry is willing to bequeath his rides in the truck to any strong boy.

Blue Belle Ruse wills her golden locks to "Red" Kendall to induce more color into the school.

Wilbur Frank's ability to knock freight trains off the track is presented to Bill Smith, to aid him in his study of "Trainology."

We will Russell Beck's wonderous skill at sleeping through there or four periods at a time to Mary Pelton. We do this so that the room will be quiet enough for others to sleep.

Chuck Smith wills his basket ball trunks to Jerome Abrams.

Calbraith Edward's love for selling ladies shoes, goes to Robert Rowe.

Eleanor Benjamin's good grades in spelling are gladly given to John Wyman.

We bequeath Fred Snyder's shell rimmed glasses to Flora McCarrier.

We will Avis Reed's ability as a debater to Doc Smith to be used in sales talks for annuals.

Wayne Kendall's music ability is hereby bequeathed to Lois Flickinger.

Alda Thomas' cooking ability is willed to Beatrice Oakes.

Ruth Fuller's habit of running to school is willed to Florence Bagger.

Harvey Carter's horsemanship is presented to Mr. Duke. He may then start a class in riding.

With all due sympathy we give "Bob" Flammers' ability to clerk in the A-B-C store to Red Kendall.

"Peggy" Kennedy's super-human ability to copy spelling words on the board correctly is willed to Louis Brereton.

Ted Lutz wishes to get rid of his hand engraved membership card to the "soda jerker's" union. Any handsome and intelligent young man may have it.

Ruth Smith's habit of coming to school about twenty minutes early is given to Miss Houston to be used during Senior Play practice in 1929.

Nelson Foskett's excellent conduct we bestow upon "Dud" Bagley.

We present Herman Watkins with Irene Kraver's courteous manners of greeting people.

Julian Bigelow's "Sleuth Bureau" is willed to "Dick" Washburn.

Borger and Cain, "The Melody Boys" will their ability to Mary Branch and Red Whitmore.

We bestow "Jerry" Black's ability as an usher on Harvey Shook.

Wilbur Kern's great love for "Tommy" Munson is willed to Coach Taggart to be showered upon Joe Gage.

"Baker" Bernhardt's football ability is given to captain-elect Hange.

Idabelle Lackey wishes to leave her duties of helping Mrs. Davenport with Clara Kuntz.

Stanbery Nichol's tennis ability we bestow upon Wilma Baish.

Thelma Simmerman's leaky fountain pen we give to her brother Frank.

Pauline Smith wills all her books to the Freshmen. They may pawn them and start a home for graduates of M. H. S.

Ellen Nichol's speaking ability we will to some fortunate Freshman—to be used in gaining victories for future M. H. S. debate team.

Fred Herrington is willing to will his willingness to write wills to any one who will willingly make a will next year that will totally eclipse this will.

Careful Study of all these bequests of such various natures must be the cause of carrying out our wishes.

Neglect of this action will be the direct cause of the turning over in the graves of the entire Senoir Class of 1928.

Therefore, we hereunto set our hand and seal this Twenty-first day of May, 1928.

THE SENIOR—By Fred Herrington.

Class Poem

When High School days are ended
And our lessons are not in a book,
We will remember Alma Mater
To her last teacher, class-room and nook.

Or can we forget the friendships
We have so firmly established here?
And though newer friends may come our way
Can they replace these others so dear?

With warm hearts we will remember
The faculty, who gave us a hand,
To help in the hardest places
That our young minds could not understand.

Then in after years we'll come back,
And in great exultation proclaim
That the hours of study expended here
Were the stepping stones leading to fame.

Ruth Smith.

A four act comedy. Scenes: Act I.—Dining room of the John Grier home on Trustees' day; Act II.—Judy's college study, one year later; Act III.—Sitting room at Lock Willow farm, three years later; Act IV.—Mr. Pendleton's library, two months later.

The first day of the month is a "big day" at the John Grier home, for it is the day on which the trustees make their tour of inspections. Jerusha Abbott, or Judy, who is past the age limit for children at the home, has been allowed to remain because of her excellent record in school, and, incidentally, because of the amount of work she can do. In the presence of the trustees, she dramatically makes her plea for a "chance to live." Jervis Pendleton, a wealthy trustee, is attracted by her fiery spirit, and he agrees to send her to college, but he agrees to do this only with the condition that she is not to know who her benefactor is. Judy, who saw only the some-what elongated shadow of Mr. Pendleton as it was outlined on the wall by the lights of a passing car, gives him the name of "Daddy Long-Legs."

The story then takes up Judy's life at college, where she rooms with Julia Pendleton, the niece of Jervis Pendleton, and Sallie McBride. With this arrangement Jervis is able to keep in touch with his charge under the pretense of visiting his niece.

The third act portrays Judy, living at Lock Willow Farm, as a popular young author. Jervis comes to visit Judy. When he asks her to be his wife she refuses because she feels that he would not want her if he knew that she was an orphan.

The farce ends in a stirring scene enacted in Mr. Pendleton's library. Judy, who has been summoned by Daddy Long-Legs, arrives at the designated meeting place to find that "Daddy Long-Legs" is—Jervis Pendleton, and she finds too, that he does not care if she is an orphan.

Class Song '28

(Tune: "In the Gloaming")

I

Our school days are past and gone,
Yet we fondly linger here;
Sweet each joy that we have known,
'Tis sad to part from comrades dear.
The world before us brightly lies,
Here fond memory loves to dwell
With saddened hearts and dewy eyes
We bid to all a sweet farewell!

II

Long our hearts recall each joy
That bound us in sweet friendship here,
Time can never-more destroy
The light of memory burning clear.
Of other scenes and other cares
Our lips must now their story tell;
Each heart your tender memory shares,
Friends and comrades, now farewell!

Junior A History

By Dorothy Hoyt

In September, 1925, fifty-six Freshmen were started along the path to higher learning.

Our Sohomore year passed uneventfully, but in our step from Sophomores to Juniors we lost some of our original members and added some new ones. Our class now numbers thirty-one. We are represented in Chorus, Band, Orchestra and Debate, as well as in every field of athletics.

Early in the term we elected the following officers: President, Louis M. Brereton; Vice-President, Donald Snyder; Secretary-Treasurer, Dorothy Hoyt.

Senior B History

By Julian Arndt

Our debut as freshmen in Medina High School was made in January, 1925. Now, after three years of study and enjoyment we are proud to have attained one of our ambitions, that is: we are known and addressed as Seniors of Medina High.

Small numbers do not mean that we have not made ourselves an important part of the school for our members have been prominent in all activities—athletic, scholastic, and social.

Our career so far has been altogether a happy one, and we are looking forward to still better things in our remaining days as members of Medina High School.

3 B Class History

In the fall of nineteen hundred twenty-five, a sturdy troop of Freshmen entered the halls of M. H. S. The upper classmen looked condescendingly upon us, making us feel as insigficant as we looked.

Gradually we overcame our greenness and took an active part in the affairs of High School life. In athletics, music and debate we were especially efficient and established an admirable record, the standard of which is still kept.

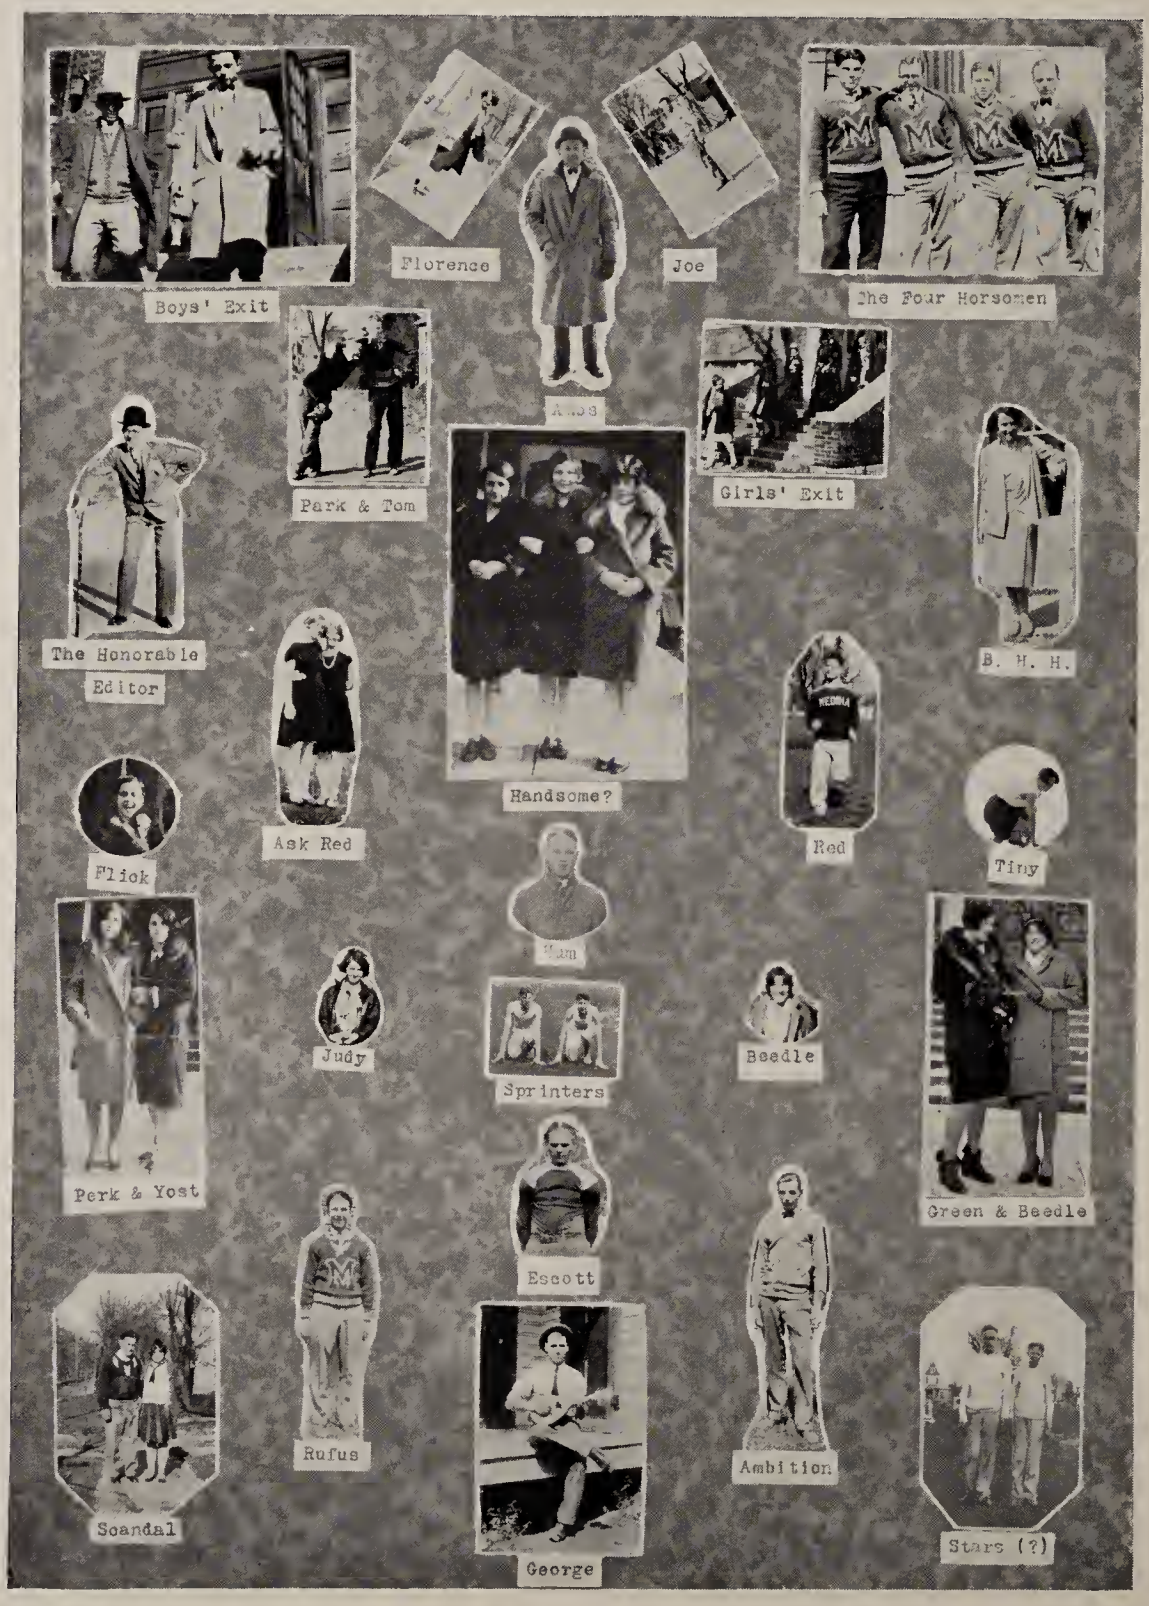

During these three years we have gained the respect and admiration of the faculty and our fellow-students. We are ready to take the responsibility of Senior-ship as the Class of '28 leaves it to us.

President—Louis Brereton.

Vice-President—Donald Snyder.

Secretary-Treasurer—Dorothy Hoyt.

Sophomore A History

On September 13, 1926, a group of fifty, frightened, Freshmen were conducted to Mr. Fenn's room. This was the beginning of a great many difficulties, but however, we are happy to say we all survived.

During our first year we contributed our talents to music, football, basketball and track. We also held a class party both semesters.

Now, as Sophomores, we have been permitted to abandon the title of "Freshies," and we feel a little more dignified. But wait until we become Seniors! Our class consists of thirty-two members in Miss Phillip's room, and nineteen in Miss Allens' room.

Our present officers are: President, John Noggle; Vice-President, Maxine Brought; Secretary-Treasurer, Corwin Hoff.

Sophomore B History

On January 31, 1927, our class of twenty members started on their High School career as Freshmen B's in Mr. Fenn's room. During this semester we were fortunate in being able to take part in most of the High School Activities. Later in the semester, a "Bunco Party" was held in the Council Room.

On September 6, we were conducted as 1 A's under the charge of Miss Houston in Room 227, where we encountered many trials and tribulations.

At the beginning of our Sophomore year seventeen pupils were distributed in Miss Allen's, Miss Phillips', and Miss Rickard's rooms, and four unfortunate ones were left by the wayside. We now feel very proud and dignified to think that we are no longer "Freshies."

Freshman A History

On September 6, 1927, eighty-five Freshmen, most of whom were a bit green, because of being afraid of receiving a ducking in the fish pond entered High School and were placed under the care of Mr. Fenn, Miss Rickard and Miss Houston.

Things went smoothly with only a few people getting lost and having to be directed by upper classmen.

At a class meeting Robert Rowe was elected President; Alice Woods, Vice-President, and Helen Gable, Secretary-Treasurer.

We had two Class Parties, one as 1 B's, and the other as 1 A's, both of which were enjoyed very much.

IB History

We admit we were green in our early days, when the Seniors told us No. 229 was located on the fourth floor. But that time, luckily for us, has long since passed, and we "Frosh" feel we have caught a glimpse of the famous Medina High Spirit.

Listen to our "Who's Who":

Alice Ecker, Beatrice Bowman, Helen Butdorff, Clayton Oberholtzer, and Angus Maitland, are prominent in the field of Athletics. Clayton Oberholtzer, Irene Jakab, and Mavis Wilcox are our class officers. We claim, also, to have a number of musicians in the orchestra.

Yes, we are only Freshmen, but some day, Oh, Haughty Seniors, we will be standing in your places. We hope we may carry on the ideals you have left for us.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Freshman Parties

On Thursday, November 3, 1927, the "Freshies" held their first High School Party. Many games were played in which everyone took part. A Treasure Hunt was given which proved very enjoyable.

Soon the refreshments were served and the party broke up. Each had spent a very enjoyable evening.

Helen Gable, Secretary.

The Freshmen held their second party on Friday, March 16, 1927. Some very interesting and exciting games were played, one being Reuben and Rachel in which Miss Houston and Mr. Taggart were the star performers.

Following this, refreshments were served and then all departed, having had a very good time.

Helen Gable, Secretary.

Sophomore Parties

The first party of the Sophomore Class was held on Friday, December 8, 1927. The chaperons were Miss Phillips, Mr. Taggart and Miss Houston. The evening was spent in playing games arranged by the entertainment committee, after which a delightful lunch was served by the refreshment committee. The party broke up at eleven o'clock and a merry bunch of Sophomores left for home.

John Noggle, President.

The Sophomores held their second party on March 23, 1928. The chaperons included Miss Phillips, Miss Allen, Mr. Taggart and Mr. Duke. The evening was spent in the playing of games and with dancing, including the Virginia Reel. Music was furnished by Mr. Kellogg's Orthophonic Victrola. Following this a lunch was served and each left for home. A fine time was enjoyed by all.

John Noggle, President.

Junior Parties

On November 23, 1927, the Juniors held their class party.

We all met in the auditorium where we played games and where some very clever stunts were given. Later, refreshments, consisting of punch, ice cream and wafers were served in the Council Room. Mr. Kellogg very kindly loaned us his Orthophonic Victrola for this great occasion. After the refreshments, we returned to the auditorium and spent the remainder of our delightful evening in dancing. We found we had some Charleston and Black Bottom experts in our class.

Dorothy Hoyt, Secretary.

Junior–Senior Party

February 24, 1928 was a red letter day, or rather night, for the Juniors and Seniors. Why? Because on that date we held our Junior-Senior Party. The guests assembled in the auditorium where games were played. Some of the guests were surprised to find their baby pictures on display. We all had our turn at guessing who they were, but some of us will have to admit that we are rather poor guessers. We also danced the Virginia Reel, with some very modern variation.

When refreshments were served in the Council Room, we found that we had in our midst such notables as Calvin Coolidge, Jimmy Walker, Clarence Darrow and many others as well known.

After the refreshments we returned to the auditorium and spent the remainder of our evening in dancing.

At (?) o'clock we all went away with the feeling that we had spent an evening which would long be remembered.

Dorothy Hoyt, Secretary.

Junior-Senior Banquet

One of the big events of the school year to which the Juniors and Seniors look forward is the Junior-Senior Banquet. It occurred on May 28, 1928 in the Council Room. The Juniors entertained the Seniors and members of the Faculty.

For this delightful occasion the room was beautifully decorated in orchid and pale green, the Senior Class Colors.

Each classman came dressed in the latest style. This was a beautiful sight to behold.

Louis Brereton, Junior Class President, gave an address of welcome and Charles Smith, Senior President, responded. The delicious dinner was then served, after which Toastmaster, Mr. Duke, made some very clever remarks and then called upon several of the Faculty and classmates to respond.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and in playing games.

Mary Pelton.

Senior Class Party

The brilliant social season of Medina High School opened on November 10, 1927, when the Seniors held their class party.

Upon our arrival at the appointed hour and place we were made to feel very much "at home" by the pleasant greeting of "Mrs. Tee Hee" and "Mr. Ha Ha." We then went to the auditorium to play games. Various groups presented very puzzling charades including "Canned Peaches," under the stage direction of Mr. Gray. Later, of course, refreshments were served. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing to music furnished by Ev England's Orchestra.

Ellen Nichols.

High School Picnic

Hurrah! Mr. Conkle announced that we were to have our High School Picnic May 25, at good old Chippewa Lake. Everyone was happily in favor of it and could hardly wait until the big day arrived.

The afternoon was spent in tennis tournaments and baseball games in which a large group took part.

When 5:30 arrived, everyone was on hand at the dining hall where a wonderful, supper was served. Many thanks are due to Miss Phillips, Freshies and Sophomores for the delightful supper.

Mary Pelton.

Faculty Parties

High School Party

One evening, last October, the teachers of Medina Village, with their wives and husbands and the members of the School Board with their wives, were entertained by the teachers in the High School Building with a picnic. It was held in an ideal spot north of Weymouth.

Miss Eleanor Wright was chairman of the committee that entertained the crowd with a few stunts before supper. They proved to be good mixers and they had the crowd well acquainted and ready for lunch.

The men soon had a good bonfire going which added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

When everything was ready we were each handed a printed menu from which we were allowed five choices. The lunch was served in Cafeteria style and consisted of the staff of life, the best of a hog, sign of love-sickness, devil's weapon, flapper's heaven, hobo's delight, etc.

Lots of fun was furnished by our selections. In the course of time everything on the bill-of-fare was served us.

The credit for the bountiful picnic supper was due Miss Houston and her committee. Later in the evening as the moon was coming up over the eastern hills we sat around the campfire, told stories and played games. The game of location furnished plenty of merriment.

Garfield Party

On February 14, all the teachers were entertained by the Garfield teachers with a Valentine Party in their building.

The early part of the evening was spent in playing progressive bunco.

Afterwards we moved to the upper hall where we were given our choice of Valentine caps and were entertained with several stunts in keeping with the evening.

Later we were invited to the lower hall where we found a change in the appearance of the room and the tables set for lunch. A most delicious lunch was served by a group of high school girls.

Music and dancing closed the delightful party.

Lincoln Party

On the evening of May 15, in response to telegrams received, the teachers, one hundred per cent strong, assembled at the Lincoln Building. Miss Ella proved an excellent hostess. What all didn't we do? Many thanks to the "Lincolnites" for this entertainment.

The Parent-Teacher Association In Medina

By E. R. Root

The Parent-Teacher Association movement is now National and statewide in its general scope with something over a million members. Practically all of our progressive school towns and cities have a P. T. A. organization and in most cases they are affiliated with the state and national bodies.

There is probably no movement in the country that has had so rapid a growth as the P. T. A., nor one that has so fully met a long felt need—co-operation between teacher and parent for the development of child welfare. This is precisely the work and purpose of a Parent-Teacher Association. It is not a grievance board where all complaints may be heard, nor does it attempt to interfere with, much less direct or dictate the policies of the school, the superintendent, or the school board; but it does attempt to bring the teacher and the parent into a close, harmonious and cordial relationship. Sometimes a child does not make the progress he should. Perhaps he is listless, dull, half nournished, or even too sick to go to school. Perhaps he is a trouble-maker, incorrigible, vicious, or a thorn in the flesh to both teacher and parent. A friendly talk between both parties results in a kindly and helpful co-operation that means vastly more than punishment on the part of either. When the mother knows that the teacher understands the child's weakness or peculiarities, or when the teacher feels that she has friendly sympathy and co-operation in the home, the problem of the child is made much more simple and easy.

Some Parent-Teacher Associations have been instrumental in establishing free dental and medical clinics. The trouble is found and the remedy applied.

So much by way of a general statement of the nation-wide movement that will develop a stronger and better generation of people in this country, people who have had a chance.

Medina now has a flourishing Parent-Teacher Association that is doing a splendid piece of work along the lines of those already indicated; viz., helpful co-operation between teacher and parent; a free dental clinic for the Lincoln and Garfield schools looking forward to an extension of this work; garden club work for the children; a series of helpful meetings in the Council Room of the High School Building where both parents and teachers get together, get acquainted, and where they can listen to an address from some out-of-town speaker. The organization has only been in existence since last December but in that time both teachers and parents are enthusiastic about its work.

Superintendent Conkle, the principals and teachers of the various departments have given most cordial support to the work. The parents as well as the taxpayers have had an opportunity to look over our schools.

Medina has reason to be proud of our schools, of our buildings and equipment, and last but not least, of our splendid corps of teachers from Superintendent Conkle down through the whole list.

The following is the list of officers: President, L. H. Randall; Vice-President, L. B. Bauer; Secretary, Millie Tubbs; Treasurer, Mrs. Edna Herthneck.

Debate Club

The Medina High School Debate Club was organized at the beginning of the first semester with about twenty members. The following officers were elected: President, Ellen Nichols; Vice-President, Stanbery Nichols; Secretary, Ruth Smith.

It was decided that we should hold a meeting each week on Wednesday, the second period, and that a text-book would be followed. Lessons were assigned and at each meeting we were required either to write a paper on a certain subject, recite on material covered in the text-book or give a talk. Mr. Bauer always gave the much needed criticisms for the benefit of all.

The meetings proved very successful and were followed until the question for the triangle debate was chosen. The question decided upon was, Resolved, "That a Protective Tariff Policy is Detrimental to the United States."

Everyone expecting to try out for the teams began to study. At each meeting of the club, talks were made on the question and finally on December 1, a tryout was held in which thirteen members of the club participated. The debaters chosen were: Ellen Nichols, Stanbery Nichols, Donald Snyder, Avis Reed, Jeannette Wait, Louis Brereton, and Beatrice Oakes.

The teams and the coaches, Miss Houston, Mr. Gray and Mr. Bauer, made two trips to the Cleveland Public Library to collect material on the question.

Wadsworth–Barberton–Medina Debate

(Negative)	10	Barberton (Aff.)	11
Total	23	Total	20

On March 23, the Medina affirmative team composed of Ellen Nichols, Avis Reed, and Donald Snyder (Captain) met the Wadsworth negative team in Medina. The question debated was, Resolved, "That a Protective Tariff Policy is Detrimental to the United States."

Each speaker was allowed ten minutes for a constructive speech and four minutes in rebuttal except the third rebuttal speaker on each side who was given six minutes.

Avis Reed opened the debate by proving that a "Protective Tariff" reduces our foreign markets. Donald Snyder continued by showing that the country's producing power is decreased and Ellen Nichols brought forth convincing evidence that "protection" is detrimental to the consumers.

In rebuttal each speaker backed up not only his own arguments but refuted those of the opposing team. Ellen Nichols closed the debate by giving a very complete summary of both cases, showing just where the negative overlooked the main points presented by the affirmative, and where the case of the negative had been destroyed by affirmative arguments. This last speech was rated by Prof. Woodward as the best of the debate. Prof. Woodward of Western Reserve University complimented the Medina team on their logical arrangement of material and superior delivery. Medina won the decision 13 to 9.

At the same time the Medina negative team consisting of Jeannette Wait, Beatrice Oakes, Louis Brereton, and Stanbery Nichols (Captain) were in Barberton expounding "protectionist" doctrines.

Stanbery Nichols opened the case for the negative by showing how "protection" promotes the industrial welfare of the United States. Jeannette Wait demonstated how it insures national independence in the time of war, and Louis Brereton closed the constructive case by disclosing how the consumers are benefitted by a tariff.

In rebuttal Beatrice Oakes spoke instead of Jeannette Wait. The Medina rebuttal was particularly strong and received special commendation by the judge.

Dr. Lean of Wooster College admitted that Medina, by far, surpassed the Barberton team in delivery, rebuttal and effectiveness, but maintained that they misinterpreted the question according to his way of thinking. Therefore, the decision was awarded the affirmative, but by the closest possible score, 10 to 11.

Medina lost one debate by 1 point and won the other by 4 points. Wadsworth lost one by 4 points, but won from Barberton by 11 points. This 11 point margin gave Wadsworth the highest score and therefore the cup awarded by the Akron Beacon Journal.

This was the first time in four years that Medina lost the triangular debate.

The Cleveland Extension Debate

OPPONENTS		MEDINA
(Affirmative)	2	(Affirmative)	2
(Negative)	1	(Negative)	1

On May 3, the Medina negative team debated the Cleveland Extension High School of Cleveland. The question discussed was, Resolved, "That the United States should abandon the protective tariff policy." This meeting was held in Medina and resulted in a hotly contested debate. However, after the smoke had cleared away and the votes were counted, it was found that Cleveland had won 2 to 1.

On May 4 the Medina affirmative team journeyed to Cleveland to engage the Extension negative team in another debate. If the Medina debate the previous night was close, this one proved closer. Not until the last word had been spoken and the judges' votes counted did any one actually know who had won. After a long wait it was finally announced that Medina had won by a 2 to 1 vote.

This debate ended a very successful season for Medina High School. The places vacated by Stanbery Nichols, Avis Reed and Ellen Nichols will be difficult to fill next year, but we hope to repeat.

High School Music Notes

The Musical activities of Medina High School have probably been more progressive than in any previous year. Mr. Beck has done much for the betterment of our music and we owe him a great deal.

The orchestra has played several times for the high school assembly, once for the Kiwanis and once for a picture show held in the auditorium on April 20. On April 14, Mr. Beck took the entire orchestra to broadcast over WHK. A delightful hour's program was given over the air. The soloists who helped to make the program a success were: Howard King, Tenor; Viva Shaw, Flute; Wayne Kendall, Trumpet; Stanbery Nichols, and Eugene Woodruff, Clarinet; Aunda McCoole, and Helen Gable, Piano; and Charlotte Spahr, the High School Orchestra Soloist. The Garfield Quartet: June Lincoln, Violin; Gordon Kissner, Trumpet; Roy Loutzenhizer, Saxophone; and Virginia Halderson, Piano, played two pieces.

The band has played for the High School assembly and as it usually does, for all football, basketball and baseball games at home. The business men and friends of the town have generously contributed enough money to buy uniforms for the entire band. The uniforms, in the High School colors, are capes of gray lined with crimson with a large letter "M" on either side. The caps of the same material, are of the overseas style. Through the campaign for uniforms carried on by the Gazette, the following friends gave funds making the uniforms possible: Al Young, John Kemp, Sam Brainard, Medina County Gazette, Citizens Savings and Loan, Sheriff Neal Roshon, Dr. W. A. Nichols, Snedden & Anderson, Savings Deposit Bank, Old Phoenix National Bank, Dr. J. N. Sipher, L. H. Randall, Ben Tibbet, Frank S. Laumer, Frank Brandow, Hatch Dairy Company, D. S. Longacre & Son, H. H. Root, H. A. Waite, Charles L. Bart, M. G. Maxwell, Steingass & Bradway, John F. Beck, The Geo. S. Mellert-Weidner Company, Gensemer Bros., Carroll McClure, Neal Kellogg, Dr. R. G. Strong, George F. High & Son, Ed Deibel, Medina Oil Company, Gail Abbott, Employees of the Henry Furnace and Foundry Company, Miss Florence Sipher, Miss Flora E. Hard, and the Princess Theatre.

The Choruses this year have been working on very difficult music and have learned to sing well. The High Chorus has been working on a cantata and the Freshman girls chorus has been working on some very interesting pieces.

The May Festival, or the general conclusion of the year's work was held in the High School Auditorium on May 1, 1928. The band played the opening numbers and the closing numbers were played by the High School Orchestra. Cain and Borger, the two High School comedians, played and sang some of their interesting numbers and the High School Chorus sang the cantata "The Mound Builders," accompanied by Ellen Nichols, Piano, Viva Shaw, Organ. The Freshmen girls' chorus sang two numbers: "I Would That My Love," by Mendelssohn, and a comedy number, "Two Little Girls." Solos were played by Viva Shaw, Flute; Wayne Kendall, Trumpet; Dwight Tubbs, Trombone; Howard King, Vocal; Hammerschmidt Brothers, Piano Duet; Woodruff and Nichols, Clarinet Duet; Garfield Five and several more numbers.

Several programs were given during the year in the assembly period: two organ recitals by Mr. Beck; a recital on the new organ by Viva Shaw; a morning devoted to piano and organ numbers by students on these instruments; a program of Christmas music and carols.

Mrs. P. C. Bigelow was the special soloist at our Good Friday and Easter Services. She sang Buck's "My Redeemer and My Lord."

At the Memorial tree planting exercises on Arbor Day, for former Superintendent Kennan, Mr. Beck played, "A Perfect Day" on the organ in memory of Mr. Kennan.

By Bernardine Weaver.

Viva Shaw, member of the Junior B Class, receives the cup awarded to "a student of exceptional ability in music," by Edna Rickard Hamilton. The winner plays exceptionally well the piano, flute and pipe organ, is organist of the local Church of Christ, member of the High School Band as Piccolo player, and Pianist of the High School Orchestra; also, she is flutist in the Medina Symphony. Recently she gave a fine recital on the new high school organ.

Viva has received her musical education with Charles L. Bart, Flute Teacher, and John Beck, Piano and Organ Instructor. She has taken 114 flute lessons, 64 piano lessons and 36 organ lessons.

In addition to her musical accomplishment Viva has also maintained a good scholarship record.

Agriculture Notes

By Frederick Willis

The Vocational Agriculture Department started last September with an enrollment of thirty-two, with twenty-two in the Animal Husbandry class and ten in the Soils and Farm Management class. The department has lost three, making an enrollment of twenty-nine at the close of the year.

The work of the Department is divided into five units of credit. Each year one unit is given except in the Sophomore year when there are two units given, the extra one being Farm Shop. In order to obtain credit in school a project carried on at home is required, where each year something in addition to the class work is carried out in a practical way on the home farm. The projects are usually a source of income as well as a means of learning the best way to do things. The aim of the work is to arouse within the boy's mind of High School age, an interest in Agriculture and to aid him in acquiring those characteristics which make for good citizenship.

The Department aims to carry on a full program of work, and in doing so, community work is carried on. The past winter a short course in the care and repair of tractors was held in the Farm Shop room. The course lasted for two weeks with an average enrollment of twenty-four. The Department helps the community in testing soils, milk, seeds and poultry culling and spraying. Over fifteen thousand gallons of spray were applied to fruit trees and potatoes last year. Two boys in the Department run the sprayer. The sprayer has been built larger and stronger this year. Over three thousand ears of corn were tested by the Department this year.

The Farm Shop class built a shelter shed at the Sophie-Huntington Skating Pond last fall.

Three trips of importance were taken by the boys this year. A trip was made to the Ohio Agriculture Experiment Station and to H. C. Ramsayer farm last fall. Here we studied how experiments were made on animals and crops and how to grow 150 acres of potatoes a year. Mr. Duke took us to the Ohio State Fair last summer. Paul Rodgers and John Noggle won prizes in judging live stock. The other trip was made to Cleveland to visit the stock yards and other interesting places for a day.

During the summer Mr. Duke plans to train a judging team to compete at the Ohio State Fair next fall. We will be busy also with our projects this summer. A tour of our projects is to be made later.

Home Economics

By Flora McCarrier

The girls taking work in Home Economics this year are learning how to cook appetizing meals, and to make all kinds of garments under the direction of Miss Wright.

There are seventy-one girls in the high school cookery classes this semester. All of them have baked bread, and are studying about food values, such as calories and the elusive vitamins and mineral matter. They have made trips to the market to learn how to tell good cuts of meat from poor ones. They know that a juicy, tender steak may be made tough by wrong cooking, and the tough, but cheaper, cuts of meat may be made into appetizing and toothsome dishes if the right principles of cookery and a little patience are applied. The more tedious processes, such as polishing silver, scouring sinks, and cleaning cupboards have also been met in class. All of the girls seem to enjoy the planning, preparation, and eating of class meals, which is a part of their regular Spring work.

Three girls from the advanced cookery class, Irene Kraver, Thelma Simmerman, and Marjean Smith have prepared the lunches for the teachers who have had noon duty.

Forty-six girls have chosen sewing as an elective this semester, and may be found in the pleasant sewing-room any school afternoon, making French and felled seams, buttonholes, plackets, facings, bindings, and set-in-pockets, and shirring, cutting and joining bias strips, and doing many other things required by Dame Fashion.

The textile class has gone to the stores to see materials of various kinds and qualities, and ready-made garments which they might copy.

About four hundred garments have been made this semester. In this elite "four hundred" are grouped many kinds of wearing apparel, from a tiny slip for baby sister, to an apron for grandmother, or a party dress for "Sweet Sixteen."

AKRON ST. VINCENTS

Medina played its first game of the season with the strong St. Vincent's eleven of Akron.

Although the score was 19-6 in favor of St. Vincent's, our eleven did exceedingly well taking into consideration that it was the first game in which several of the players had ever participated.

AKRON GARFIELD

Our team again journeyed to Akron to play with Akron Garfield High School. Again the score was against them, with Garfield's passing which resulted in a 13-0 game. The Green and White fought hard, but the breaks of the game were against them from the very first and they failed to push the ball across the goal line.

SOUTH AMHERST

This was a great day for the Medina squad, for they redeemed themselves for the first two defeats by drubbing South Amherst 25-6. The team showed all the fight and pep they had and swamped South Amherst before they could waken to what was happening to them. We have only one regret and that because it was in this game that Miller, our fullback was hurt and forced to abandon football for the time.

MILLERSBURG

The M. H. S. squad added another victory to that of the week before by outplaying Millersburg 6-0. Medina's touchdown came in the final period when Davis received a long pass from Barry, when standing three feet away from the goal line. Although he was tackled almost before he could move a step, he fell across the goal line for a touchdown. The touchdown was all the more exciting because it was the fourth down and only thirty seconds to play.

NORTH RIDGEVILLE

The next game was played with North Ridgeville at Ridgeville. The Medina boys held the Ridgeville team to a scoreless tie for the first three quarters, then Ridgeville broke loose and succeeded in getting two touchdowns before the end of the game; one at the end of the third quarter and one in the fourth. Medina's two points were scored on a touch-back making a score of 12-2.

NEW LONDON

New London was the next team that invaded Medina and although they were defeated, the Medina boys scored the first touchdown, when Hoff ran back forty-eight yards with the ball, after the New London fullback fumbled a pass.

After the first quarter, however, M. H. S. team let down just enough for the New London team to squeeze in two touchdowns and two points on a touch-back. In the last quarter our boys again returned with the old fight but were unable to put over a touch-down in time and the game ended 14-7.

WADSWORTH

This was the big game of the season and although the team was sent away from here, all pepped up to trounce Wadsworth, the game ended with a score of 19-7 in favor of Wadsworth. Medina's lone touchdown came in the final quarter, then the Green and White showed real power and a pass was intercepted and the ball was carried over the line.

WELLINGTON

Another defeat was chalked up against Medina when Wellington came here and defeated our eleven 13-6. Our boys put up a fight worthy of a better score but the breaks were against them and Wellington made two touchdowns.

ASHLAND

The Armistice Day game was played with Ashland High at Ashland. Again the M. H. S. squad was routed and Ashland won with a score of 13-0.

This was a disappointment to us as Ashland was a newcomer on our 1927 schedule and we wanted to show them what kind of a school they had picked to play. The team, however, did very well and Ashland knew that they were in a hard fought game.

BEREA

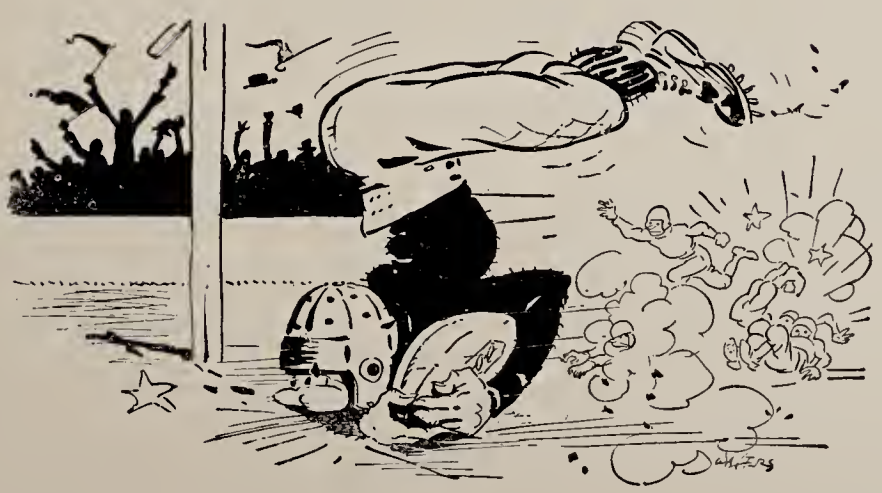

The final game of the season was played with the strong Berea team. From the first, Medina was out-played before their heavier opponents, and although they fought their hardest, especially those who were playing their last game for Medina High, they were defeated 25-0. Berea thus finished the season with a clean slate.

LODI

Coach Taggart's second string men played their first game of the season October 19 with the Lodi first team. The scrubs came out at the small end of a 13-0 score but they played an excellent game never-the-less.

STRONGSVILLE

The second team played their second game at Strongsville November 2. This time they were able to score a touchdown and the game ended 12-7 in favor of Strongsville.

BIGELOW

Right Halfback

Weight 140 lbs. Class '28

This is "Park's" first and last year as a varsity man. He helped push the old "pigskin" through in places where it seemed almost beyond possibility. He was a very good blocker and cleared the way for many touchdowns.

BECK

Right Tackle

Weight 155 lbs. Class '28

This was Beck's first year as a varsity man. He played his best game at Ashland after the Ashland players thought he was easy to get through. He broke his ankle in the last game with Berea but played five minutes afterwards. He certainly had the old Medina High spirit. He will not be back next year.

BARRY (Capt.)

Fullback

Weight 150 lbs. Class '28

Barry has played on the first team for three years. He could always be depended on to gain a yard for a first down. He called signals, punted, and did all the passing. He was high point man of the season and will be greatly missed next year.

BERNHARDT

Left Guard

Weight 175 lbs. Class '28

Henry has been on the first team three years and for the last two years he hasn't missed a minute of play. That record speaks for itself. In the Millersburg game he broke through and threw them for losses time after time. He will surely be missed next year.

AVERILL

Quarterback

Weight 130 lbs. Class '29

"Hum" made the varsity this year. Although very light, he could put himself between our goal and the man running with the ball in such a way as to make it embarrassing for that runner. We are glad "Hum" is going to be with us again. He vows he is going to make himself felt next year.

HANGE

Center

Weight 170 lbs. Class '29

This is Hange's third year of varsity football and he is an expert center on both defense and offense. He played well in all the games but in the Berea game he showed the boys how to open a hole for Barry. He expects to make a better record next year. We think it will have to be a mighty good one.

KINDIG

Left Tackle

Weight 140 lbs. Class '28

Kindig was little but mighty. Our opponents would see him standing up on our line but after the play was over he could be seen on the ground with his arms locked around the legs of the man with the ball. Rufus was quarterback on the second team also.

HOFF

Right Guard

Weight 170 lbs. Class '30

"Hoff," playing his first year of varsity football, was exceedingly good at making a hole for the backfield men to get through. He played well in all the games and starred in the New London game by carrying a fumble 45 yards. He will be back next year.

MILLER

Right Halfback

Weight 147 lbs. Class '28

"Bill," another to make the varsity this year, will be missed in the coming fall. He carried the ball through the line for a big gain a good many times. He was very good on defense.

ESCOTT

Left Tackle

Weight 160 lbs. Class '30

Escott played good steady football until he got his knee hurt in the North Ridgeville game. This injury kept him out for almost the rest of the season, but next year he should be going strong again.

COLE

Weight 130 lbs. Class '31

"Red" is only a Freshman and small at that but he has the M. H. S. football fight. He made many gains for he is a good end runner. He played safety on defense and played the position well.

DAVIS

Weight 142 lbs. Class '30

This was "Chink's" first year. He made a good showing for himself on the M. H. S. eleven, and generally left a good impression on the man he tackled. Although bothered by a bad knee, he showed the Medina High boosters he was ready for two more years.

KING

Right Tackle

Weight 155 lbs. Class '28

King will be on the graduating list this year and we surely hate to see him go. He made a name which will always be remembered by his old Alma Mater.

Basketball

Center—YOST—Class '28

"Cookie," our lengthy center, certainly played his part well. He is an all around shot. He can be thankful for his long arms for they have helped him out of many pinches. He was always for a square deal, but when some opponent started to be rough, he became disgusted. We will certainly miss him next year as he graduates this spring.

Left Forward—KINDIG—Class '28

"Rut," although rather small, is a fast player. He always knew where to play. He would sneak down the line, take in the long and hard passes, then feed them to Lance for "Sucker shots." This is Kindig's last year and his loss will be felt this fall.

Right Forward—LANCE—Class '28

Earl is a fast player and very good on both long and short shots. In the Wadsworth game here, he dropped the ball in the basket from the center of the floor. Everyone thought that this was luck, but when he dropped two more in, in the same manner, they soon changed their minds. Lance became ineligible at the end of the first semester but he did his best before. We certainly miss him.

Left Guard—HANGE—Class '29

"Pat," our big back guard, pulled us out of some tight places by his remarkable guarding. He could be depended on to watch his man and occasionally would add another basket to our score when it was most needed. "Pat" has one more year with the M. H. S. so we expect better things from him then.

Basketball

Right Guard—MILLER—Class '28

"Bill" isn't so very tall but he could be depended on to break up the short shots. He could catch a long hard pass and then make a long shot tally. He did this in the Wadsworth game and tied the score. "Bill" leaves a vacancy at guard for next semester which will be hard to fill.

Center—H. WILLIAMS—Class '28

Horace will be among those who are graduating this spring. We certainly hate to see him go as he was very good at center and at shooting short shots. He was a very fast player and a good sportsman.

Right Forward—L. WILLIAMS—Class '30

Leroy is known as our "Midget Forward." Sickness in his family rather held him out of basketball for a while but as he has two more years ahead of him, he should develop into a real forward.

Left Forward—SHOOK—Class '29

Shook played guard the first part of the season, but forward in Kindig's or Lance's absence. Shook has another year of basketball in which time he should develop into a fine forward.

Left Guard—HOFF—Class '30

Hoff, although not as experienced as some of our team knows the knack of breaking up short shots. He has two more years left, so he should become a first class player.

Northern Ohio Athletic League

Feeling the need for a league in High Schools that were by location and size natural rivals, representatives of the following High Schools: Amherst, North Ridgeville, New London, Wadsworth, Wellington, Vermilion, and Medina met at Wellington October 26, 1927, and organized the Northern Ohio League. Each High School in the league will play each other once in football, twice in basketball, once in baseball and a Track Meet will be held each year.

The league voted to adopt a rotating schedule in football, basketball and baseball and to award the winner of the sport a suitable trophy.

The league started functioning with the baseball season of 1928.

NORMAN BARRY—Class of 1928

"Norm."—Pitcher. Managed to strike out several during each game last year. A good hitter.

WILLIAM MILLER—Class of 1928

"Bill."—Short-stop. Good at picking up hot grounders. Managed to get on base about each trip to the plate.

JOHN GREIF—Class of 1928

"Jonnie."—Center-field. Was a good fielder. Generally reached first at least, each time up.

TOM HAIGHT—Class of 1928

"Skate."—Started the season by playing right field. This was his last year to wear the Green and White.

PAUL HANGE—Class of 1929

"Pat."—Played third base, well fitted for the purpose. Has worn the Green and White in four different sports this year. Pat held down the hot corner sack very creditably.

HARVEY SHOOK—Class of 1929

"Shook."—Was the left-handed guardian of the left field garden. Harvey was a good fielder, but not a very heavy hitter. He has one more year to wear the Green and White.

CORWIN HOFF—Class of 1930

"Skyller."—As our talkative second baseman, Skyller did much to liven up the team by talking all the time. He also was a fair hitter.

CLARENCE ESCOTT—Class of 1930

"Escott."—Good fielder. A left-handed pitcher. Hobby is trying to strike out every one at bat. He tried to hit every time up.

LEROY WILLIAMS—Class of 1930

"Williams."—Very attractive short-stop. Could stop hot grounders. He has two more years to wear the Green and White, for which we are glad.

BRAYTON MOORE—Class of 1931

"Moore."—A freshman. Started his first game playing first. Good at holding the ball. He has three more years to represent M. H. S.

HOMER DAVIS—Class of 1931

"Davis."—A freshman that could play any position on the team. He was a fine player. We are glad he has three more years to wear our colors.

Forward—SMITH—Class of 1928

"Smithy" has proved her ability and willingness to fight for the Green and White, by representing the High School for four years. We will certainly miss her next year.

Forward—COLE—Class of 1928

"Tiny" more than lived up to expectations. The M. H. S. spirit and determination was characteristic of her playing throughout the season. Her absence will be greatly felt next year.

Guard—McMILLAN—Class of 1928

"Mac" waited until her Senior year to try out for the Basketball Team but it didn't take her long to prove to us that she could play a veteran game of ball.

Forward—KIRK—Class of 1928

"Margie" was a faithful and reliable player. At Wadsworth when we needed her, she scored the one necessary point, which gave us the lead.

Center—KRAVER—Class of 1928

"Kraver" was always willing to play when she was given the opportunity. We like her spirit and we will miss her from one lineup next year.

Guard—YOST—Class of 1929

"Yost" decidedly added more glory to the name of Yost by representing M. H. S. We expect her to remain faithful to the Green and White next year.

Guard—FLICKINGER—Class of 1929

"Flick's" first year on the team proved to us that she can play loyally and fairly for M. H. S. We are expecting much from her next year.

Guard—GUNDER—Class of 1932

"Ginnie" played Basketball for the first time but her willingness and determination to do her best gave her a place on the team.

Center—GREEN—Class of 1929

"Rosie's fight and ability proved to be a very important asset to the team. We are thankful that she will be with us another year.

Center—WOODS—Class of 1932

"Peter's" first year on the team, proved to us that with three more years to play, she will be remembered as a Basketball player of note.

Guard—KELSER—Class of 1929

"Kelser's" ever ready willingness and sportsmanship to fight for M. H. S. was evident in the Wadsworth game played on their floor.

Guard—BAGGER—Class of 1931

"Bagger's" ever ready eagerness to play the game was characteristic of her playing throughout the season. She should make her presence known next year.

Forward—BEEDLE—Class of 1931

"Twinie's" presence on the team was evident. With two more years to play plus the ability to play, which she already has, she could become worthy to represent M. H. S.

Guard—PERKINS—Class of 1929

"Perk's" eagerness ad loyalty was very noticeable in her playing. She will be heard from next year without a doubt.

Guard—GORDON—Class of 1929

"Gordon" remained true to the Green and White during the whole season. When she was given an opportunity she proved her worth as a member of the M. H. S. Squad.

On March 27 and 28, an inter-class basketball tournament was held and much to the surprise of almost every one, the Sophomores won and had the honor of playing against the High School Team. The school should feel proud of these players because they have two more years in which to try their ability on the team.

HONEY FOR THE HEART

One of the greatest living physicians, Dr. Dorland, author of "Old Age Deferred," recommends honey for heart trouble. It acts immediately as a food and stimulant for the heart. He says that no one with heart trouble should ever go to bed at night without a glass of water containing a tablespoonful of honey and a little lemon juice, which is to be drank whenever waking in the night, for it at once braces and strengthens the heart.

$25,000 Interest from $12,000 Principal

If a miser hid away $25 a month for a period of 40 years, he would have $12,000, granted that he kept his secret from thieves.

The same $25 a month, deposited in the Citizens would give safety and at the end of the same period he would have not $12,000 but $37,801.69. The difference of $25,801.69 represents the part that Citizen interest has earned. Interest compounded works night and day, and takes no time off.

Lois: How kind of you to bring me these lovely flowers. They are so beautiful and fresh. I think there is some dew on them yet.
Norm: Yes, there is, but I can't pay it until tomorrow.
